NEW DIRECTIONS!

Every now and then, a company must step back and examine the battle plan. We have recently done this, and some things are going to change.

Last year we did three Logs (by using the Nexus material for #13); this year we will again do three, but with all new material.

We once planned to include the Early Hydrans in this issue, but instead we're going to move Module Y itself up by a full year and release it this fall.

The planned "encyclopedia" product will now be divided into six sections and spread across two years of Captain's Logs.
